To the Editor of the Daily Eagle:

NEW MEXICO, Aug. 18.

the unpleasant hour of 3 a. m., and daylight finds us running past a dry prairie country with no water, and very little grass and timber; mountains looming up moderate altitude. Early in the morning we enter the narrow winding valley of the Agua Alyul. (Blue Water.) with occasional anches, and the most interesting Indian Pueblo of LaGuna. The town is one great line of connected rooms, and probably has not changed since the days of Coronado. It is built upon a high rock, at the foot of which the road passes. The Indians are agricultural and pastoral; have large flocks of horses, cows and sheep, and are self-supporting, as they always have been. The valley and surrounding country contains many ruins of former ages. A little further on, at McCarty's station, is the abrupt end of a lava bed which covers the valley for the next twelve miles, and extends west. I am told, thirty or forty miles, covering what was once, one of the prettiest valleys in New Mexico, to some very large craters. from which flowed this immense mass black molten lava, called here "nealpi" rock, (mal-pais.) This lava, flow was the last convulsion of nature in this vicinity, and is of really recent date, and I have no doubt covers with its black, burnt and ragged map. The towns, fields and houses of a once prosperous peopleperhaps the same convulsion which poured forth this flery flood of death and desolation, broke up and destroyed the source of the rivers and and springs which supplied the great city of Quivira, among others, with water, whose ruins cover many miles of country, and where in the great plain in which it is situated not a drop of water can be found for forty miles around, though parties have, at great expense, dug wells in every promising spot in and about the ancient city, hauling the water they used in barrels from long distances. The A. & P. road crosses New Mexico on tains to cross or cut through. Nature had provided a grade across the backbone of the continent as easy as the grade from Wichita to Kansas City. The country was once a vast plain, underlaid for many hundred feet with sandstone, containing coal. By volcanic energy this plain was broken and tilted up, which lapse of time has worn down into mesa and valleys. In a few places the granite underlying the rock broke through its covering of sands tone, and reared its ragged granite peaks high above the surrounding country, forming the "San Matea" and "Zuni" mountains ultimately associated with the traditions and mythology of the ancient Pueblo races.

The "mesas" have one abrupt side 500 or 600 feet nearly perpendicular, and slope back generally, to a beautiful valley. The abrupt side is cut into innumerable gulches, canyons and terraces by time and the elements, and are of the most beautihues from cream color to red with some times a black line of coal, and groups of green trees for contrast. Tals most beauiful and romantic portion of our country is almost unknown to the tourist. I have traveled for days through canyons and parks and valleys as beautiful and romantic as the Garden of the Gods in Colorado, and a stered about on every side are the ruiss of populous towns and settlements. But I fear I have put too much geology into this letter. So adios,

As we said, Mr. Martin has a splendid farm. He says all of his crops are big crops, and that his corn will yield immensely. Mr. M. has been a resident of New England, also of the Pacific coast, but he never found a country that entirely satisfied him until he struck the Great Arkansas. If everything else about his home sizes up to his peaches, we don't wonder that he is a happy and contented man.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23-The match race be tween the famous pacers, Johnston, owned by Commodore A. W. Kittson, and Richball, owned by J. S. Campbell, for a wager of $5,000 a side, occurred here this afternoon. The weather was clear and cool and the track fast, except a portion of the back stretch, which was soft. The attendance was 5,600. Johnston was the favorite in the pools before the opening of thd race at 25 to 10, and a large amount of money was wagered, the friends of Richball claiming that Johnston could not go three fast heats. The result proved that they were mistaken, as he was never headed, and pacing very close to Little Brown Jug's 2:11 3-4, 2:12 3-4, 2:12 1-2, which are the fastest three heats on record. It was the general opinion that Johnston, had he been driven out in each heat, could have beaten this, Campbell, the owner of Richball, says his horse was out of condition.

First heat—Johnson drew the inside position, and after both horses had been warmed up, they came down even and goling with the state of the legislature.

bell, the owner of Richball, says his horse was out of condition.

First heat—Johnson drew the inside position, and after both horses had been warmed up, they came down even and going well, and got the word "go!" at the first attempt. At the first turn Johnson began to draw away, and increased his lead to two lengths at the first quarter, which was passed in 32.3-4 seconds, and the half in 1:06.3-4. Around the upper turn Richball drew up to within an open length. The 3-4 pole was reached in 1:39.1-2. On the homestretch Johnson began drawing away and as it became evident that there was no chance of winning the heat, Richball was pulled inside the distance stand, and Johnson won in a jog in 2:18.

Second heat—They went away well together at second attempt. At quarter post which was made in 3: 1.2 seconds Johnson to combarding the arsenal at Foo Chow toson won in a jog in 2:13.

Second heat—They went away well together at second attempt. At quarter post which was made in 32 1-2 seconds, Johnston was an open length in front. Their relative positions were not changed to the half, made in 1:05 1-2. At the end of four furlougs Johnston responded to the call of his driver and quickly opened a gap of halfa dozen lengths, and coming on, won in a jog by twenty lengths. Time 2:13 3-4.

Third heal—They were given the send off at the first trial, Johnston shot half a length in the lead and he increased it steadily, going to the quarter post in 34 seconds, to the half mile in 1:081, and to the three-quarters in 1:31, and finishe 1 in 2:132, nearly distancing Richball.

Following this event was an exhibition by the pacing mare "Minnie R," hitched to a wagon, with the running horse, Fire brand, which accompanied the pacer westward when he paced over this course in 1:04; three-quarters in 1:35; mile in 2:07.

Second heat—They went away well together as econds, Johnston reported that Li Pong Poo was instructed by imperial decree to settle the dispute on the best terms possible.
